

BROCK UNIVERSITY DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS

Bringing an extensive knowledge of interuniversity sport and a commitment to creating an environment of excellence for athletes, the Director of Athletics will provide innovative leadership in the strategic planning, fiscal management, human resource management, risk management and program evaluation of a comprehensive intercollegiate athletics program that enhances the quality of student life and aligns with the goals and priorities of Brock University.

Reporting to the Vice President, Finance & Administration, the ideal candidate will possess proven senior leadership experience in athletics combined with exceptional communication and relationship building skills, as well as superior judgment, tact, problem solving and decision making abilities. Your success includes expertise in planning and promoting athletic events and developing fundraising strategies that support and advance athletics.

Why choose Brock? We're one of the fastest-growing universities in Ontario, with hundreds of millions of dollars committed to new construction and programs. We're small enough to be intimate and big enough to attract world-class minds. We share a bold, independent spirit, break the boundaries of academic convention, and view community involvement as crucial to developing well-rounded individuals. We have a rich tradition of athletic excellence, with the Badgers capturing 28 national and 55 provincial championships in its 43-year history. If you want to be part of something exciting, then join us!
